Discuss Relief Plans At Supervisors Meeting

Discuss Chance To Join With Cumberland In Welfare Set Up

The supervisors of Appomattox county at their regular monthly meeting yesterday discussed at some length the matter of joining in on the public assistance fund set up by the last session of the legislature.

Under this fund, this county could secure 3,209.05 if it put up 1,925.43. Only 10 per cent could be used for administrative costs and it is likely that the county would have to dig deeper into its budget than the first 1,900 to supplement the 10 per cent. By transferring 5% present items for aid to paupers, etc to this cause, the amount the county would have to put up would be within reach.

For welfare work, the supervisors have considered the possibility of joining with a nearby county, possibly Cumberland, thus having a part of the cost.

New Way of Ballot Marking To Be Used

New Method Of Marking Ballots To Be Used In Future Elections

Virginia electoral boards may recommend mail voters of the state's new affirmative voting law without violating the constitutional prohibition against giving aid to persons planning to cast their ballots, according to a ruling made by Attorney General Staples.

The old method of marking a ballot which required the scratching of names of all candidates save the one favored by the voter, was abolished by the 1936 general assembly and the new affirmative method substituted.

In future elections it will be necessary only to put a mark beside the name of the candidate the voter favors.

Dr. Hamlet Franklin, of Hot Springs, and Miss Jerry Rose were recent guests of Mrs. R.L. Franklin.

48,000 Tree Seedlings Planted In County By Governmnet This Year

12 Appomattox Farms Profit By Forestry Program In State

With the curtain just drawn on the tree planting season of the spring, final reports from the Soil Conservation Service at Danville, show that 48,122 tree seedlings have been planted in the local area wrking out of Emergency Conservation Work camp Number 10 at Appomattox.

In this area 12 cooperating farms have formed the scene of the planting and forestry work and with all the acreage thrown together in one spot, a total of 39 acres will have new trees in growth. Trees are planted in badly eroded spots, gullies, gall spots and pasture lands. There was an average of 1234 trees per acre.

The dominating species used in the work are Loblolly Pine, Black Locust, Oak, Black Walnut and Privet Shrub. The planting season has just been declared as dormant until the coming fall season opens.

Survival of the seedlings set out shows on recent inspection that the work has been thus far successful. Approximately 90 per cent of those planted are drawing a healthy livelihood from the soil.

A total of 239 man-days of labor were required in the work, the labor coming from the E.C.W. camp in the area.

Trees are considered one of the most reliable erosion preventions and the reforestation work is rapidly taking hold on a large scale in this state. Thousands of acres are being given over to forestry in an effort to replenish the state with timber as well as to curb the severe erosion that has already taken thousands of acres of Virginia soil and carried it can never be used as of yore.
